Broth and Bread – the Perfect Appetite Suppressant

by Kim Amboy

At a certain time each day, it happens--hunger starts gnawing, and your growling stomach whispers, "Feed me!" No matter how you try, concentration is impossible, putting a kibosh on your productivity. There's only one way to fix this, and the search for sustenance begins. Yesterday's burger and fries were good, but today you crave something different, something old-fashioned and satisfying in the form of a crusty grilled sandwich and a hot bowl of hearty soup to dip it in. Yep, that would certainly do the trick! But now you are faced with another dilemma...there are tons of soup and sandwich combos to choose from, and all are totally customizable depending on your preference and the size of your appetite. Happily, whether it's a whole chicken salad sandwich and a cup of chowder, or a half a roast beef sammie and a big bowl of French onion, you can't possibly go wrong. So, here's to satisfying that pesky appetite of yours! And a hearty three cheers for the nearby eateries who are poised and ready to do so.

La Cucina - 11440 W Huguenot Rd, Midlothian. Demolish your hunger with a true Italian-made meal expertly crafted with love and quality ingredients. Each of La Cucina's perfectly grilled Panini sandwiches are served on your choice of house made Focaccia or Tuscan bread, and they pair perfectly with Chef Vito's daily created special soups. "Buon Mangiare!"

◀◀◀ The Grill at Waterford - 13548 Waterford Pl, Midlothian. If you like eating excellent homemade food in a cozy environment, this is the place!

For decades, the Grill's loyal customers have been returning for delicious sandwiches, including the absolute best Reubens, soup, and all the other great entrees on the menu. Gluten-free bread is available, as well.

Great Harvest Bread Company - 13541 Midlothian Turnpike, Midlothian. One of the most important components in a great sammie is the bread, and that's certainly true at Great Harvest. This laid-back eatery/bakery is a popular Midlothian stop for outstanding sandwiches, soups, and yummy baked goods. The next time hunger calls, stop in and taste the fresh-baked difference at GHBC.

Four Seasons - 14320 Winterview Pkwy, Midlothian. Welcome to the Vlasidis family table! This beloved Midlothian eatery features a diverse menu of dishes with a Greek flair, including great soups, sandwiches, and, of course, amazing desserts. Make sure to bring your appetite, because Four Seasons doesn't skimp on portion size...you'll often leave with a doggy bag!

Preparing for a Possible “Historic” Winter

According to the NOAA, “During the October-December 2026 season, there is a 69% chance of a historic [El Niño] event that would exceed the strength of previous El Niño events dating back to 1950.” I don’t know about you, but when I hear that, I think: It’s time to be proactive and get ahead of this potentially “historic” winter.

What are some concerns? And what can we do to mitigate the risk of dangerous or expensive outcomes?

The concern: Freezing Temperatures

- HVAC. You don’t want to discover a heating problem on the first really cold night of the season. Schedule routine HVAC maintenance and dryer vent cleaning now to help prevent winter breakdowns and improve efficiency.
- Chimneys. A pre-season cleaning will not only keep your family safe from dangerous air quality and fire hazards from buildup, but can also reduce your wood consumption and extend your chimney’s life.
- Windows & Doors. Fixing leaky windows and doors can lower your heating costs and the strain on your HVAC system.
- Septic Systems & Wells. Autumn is a good time for septic maintenance or inspections since the ground is still workable. If you have a private well, consider having your water quality checked and confirm pipes and other components are prepared for freezing temperatures.
- Trees. Have dead, damaged, or potentially dangerous trees near your home, driveway, or walkways inspected and removed before winter storms arrive.

The concern: Mold & Moisture

- Roof and Gutters. Roofs can have years of buildup of algae, fungus, and moss, creating a warm home for mold. Clogged gutters encourage mold growth and can even cause leaks and foundation issues. Getting your roof and gutters cleaned, along with the installation of gutter guards, can deter mold growth in your home and prevent water damage.
- Crawlspace or Basement. Dark, damp areas beneath and inside our homes can become breeding grounds for mold. Proper sealing, drainage, and moisture control can help keep your home drier and more comfortable.

The concern: Leaving Home

- Driveways. Safe access into and out of your home is important for your family, guests, and emergency responders. Address potholes, drainage problems, uneven surfaces, and other hazards before they’re covered by snow or ice.
- Vehicles. Winter weather can be tough on our vehicles. Tires with low tread significantly increase the risk of accidents. Regular maintenance and a seasonal tune-up can keep you and others on the road safe.

We certainly don’t want to imagine the worst-case scenario, but being prepared doesn’t mean expecting the worst. It simply means giving ourselves a better chance of handling whatever winter brings. A little preparation now may come with some up-front expense, but the peace of mind and the money saved by avoiding a major repair or emergency can make it well worth the effort.
